dedication

Although Wake Lorest has changed physically many times since her founding, there has been an unchanging entity running throughout her history. This spirit of unfaltering loyalty and devotion to the highest principles of Christian education is exemplified in the man to whom we dedicate Lin Howi it is of 1958.

Dr. Albert Clayton Reid, who graduated with the class of 1917, has served the college as professor of psychology and phi-Josophy for thirty-five years, During these years, through his classroom and his writings, he has motivated people to think for themselves in the "earnest, sincere, and courageous search for knowledge." At the same time he has shown by example that one can be an independent thinker and still hold the strongest of Christian beliefs. It is with respect and appreciation that we dedicate this book to an outstanding teacher, a gracious friend and counselor, and above all a Christian gentleman.

If the year 1957-1958 was a year of stormy seas and thwatted hopes, it was also a year for renewed courage and reconstructed dreams. If we the people who are the true spirit of Wake Forest faced disappointment and failure, we met it with the zest of youth undergirded by a deep loyalty and fighting devotion for our alma mater and for the principles upon which she is founded. We rebelled and criticized, but we struggled under the surveillance of a warefull public eye to sustain her highest attributes and to rectify her weaknesses. So we "moved in passion and rested in reason."

This then is our year in review, an actual rather than a sensational account as we the students hived it. The story of a school year is difficult to reflect through the media of pictures and type, for it is an clusive mixture of fact and sentiment catalogued according to a personal file of experiences of juxtaposed for and sorrow, victory and defeat, play and work. Nevertheless, this 1958 Howler is published with the desire that it shall serve as a see-it-now but remember-for-ever volume and that its readers shall ever continue to sing the praises of Wake Forest's "noble name," her "glorious fame."

Will Allred Vice-President Elizabeth Prickett Secretary Dickie Newsome

President

How was the Class of 1958 different from all other classes? We arrived on campus as green freshmen and advanced to know-it-all sophomores and round-about juniors who really knew the ropes. And we will graduate both glad and sad for the same reasons and in the same way as all preceding classes. We have neither been the first nor the last nor the only class to do anything. Like all classes we lost some to marriage, some flunked out, and some just left! We studied some and played a lot. We got up early and went to bed late. Sound like routine? Well, it was . . . but it was the greatest routine we'll ever live to experience. If not different, the class of '58 is distinctive because it is composed of individuals who collectively harmonized into an interesting array of personalities sharing the "best years of their lives."

A winless season is hard to take, and only the best can still carry their school spirit when the last game comes around. The Wake football team did just that. Never has a team put so much into something and received so little for their effort. Never has so much bad luck plagued a team as plagued the Deacons this year.

A very good example of this misfortune was the game with Clemson. Wake Forest led the Tigers almost four full quarters by a score of 6-0. Then in the last three minutes Clemson scored two touchdowns to beat a team which had out-played them practically every minute of the entire ball game. Coach Amen and his staff did their best; the players did their best; but the best was just not good enough.

The half ended with Virginia leading 21-7 The second Deacon rouchdown was set up when Dalrymple intercepted a pass on the Wike 19 and returned it to the 41. Again in the fairth period Moore intercepted a nump pass on the Cavalier 36 to set up Wake's final score. With the score 21-20 the Cavaliers then went to work behind Bakhtiar til get an insurance touchdown.

Wake Forest handed Maryland its first win of the season by a one-sided score of 27-0. Three times in the first half the Deacons drove deep into Maryland territory. It was on the third effort of Wake Forest to score that a break occurred to turn the tide for Maryland, With Wake Forest on the Terps' eleven yard line, Wake fumbled. The fumble was caught by a Maryland player and carried to the 45. Fleven plays later Maryland had its first score. The Terps in their second half of football glory, smashed 73 yards for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter, moved 63 yards midway in the quarter; and then scored on a spectacular 61 yard pass on the last play of the game.

wake forest—duke

Duke's fifth ranked Blue Devils built up a 34-0 half time lead and went on to swamp the Deacons 34-7. The only Deacon score came with only thirty-five seconds left in the game. A total of forty-three Duke men saw action in this game with the starting eleven sitting out the entire second half. Wray Carlton who at this time was the nation's leading scorer played only ten minutes to score twice. The first half of the whole show was Duke's with 27 of the 34 points coming in the second quarter.

Carolina, a two touchdown favorite going into the game, had to settle for a one touchdown victory over a fired up Wake Forest team. Neither team could score in the first period. In the second period Carolina got the ball on their own 44 after repeated punt exchanges and went 56 yards in 6 plays to score. However later on in the period Carolina's Ron Marquette fumbled a punt that was covered by Johnson on the Carolina 30, Not much later Manning plunged over for the score. Neil McLean kicked the goal and it was 7-7 with only 10 seconds to go in the half. Aided by a fumble that netted them a 28 yard gain Carolina scored early in the second half to win 14-7.

Following a scoreless first period, in which both teams lost possession on fumbles, the Wolfpack of State started rolling; moving forty-six yards in thirteen plays to score on a short run by Dick Hunter. State missed its try for the extra point to lead at half time by a score of only 6-0. Halfback Dick Christy, who picked up 100 yards in 20 carries sparked the drive by stomping 26 yards in five tries. Wake held State until the final minutes of the third quarter, but then State covered a fumble on the Deacon's twenty-six and scored five plays later. The game's final score was tacked up in the fourth quarter. Shifting over into the single wing often, the winners swept 53 yards in six carries. Final score 19-0.

But luck was against the Deacons again as they missed three chances of scoring in the first half. In the third quarter. Virginia Tech field up the ball game and added the winning touchdown with less than three minutes left to play. Final score 10-3.

Once again Wake Lorest's pass defense was weak, allowing three passes to be eaught by West Virginia in the end zone. Despite this, the Deacons twice came within seven points of the Mountaineers, seoring one touchdown in each half. The half-time score was 21-7 in favor of West Virginia. The Deacons outscored the Mountries in the second half by 7-6, making the final score 27-14 against the Deacs.

Wake I orest did not participate in the usual number of tournaments this year because of a crowded schedule. The Deacons were not able to defend their title in the annual Carrousel Tournament in Charlotte. However, the Deacons represented themselves very well in the Dixie Classic with a first round upset victory over favored Duke. Later losses to N. C. State and Duke left the Deacons in fourth place.

In the ACC Tournament the Deacons again drew the Blue Devils in the opening round and this time the Dukes outlasted the men from Winston by the score of $1-44 to ring down the curtain on the 1955-58 basketball season for Wike Forest.

The end of the 1957 season found Wake Forest's baseball team with a 9-7 league record and a 13-7 overall mark. Besides the three one-run losses, Wake Forest lost also to two old ACC foes; the University of North Carolina and North Carolini State. After the loss to the Tar Heels on April, 25th, the Deacons won their last seven games. Wake Forest lost nine men from the 1957 team. Finding their college baseball careers were Buck Fichter, Bill Lovingood, Jack McGinley, Oren Muse, John Stokoe, Jackie Murdock, Harold Moore, Bill Barnes, and George Miller.

Coach Gene Hooks has high hopes of a very successful season in 1958. After winning the last seven games of 1957 season, it has been predicted that the winning streak will be continued in the next season. Three one-run losses midway in the year cost Wake the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship in 1957. The three losses in the same week were to Duke by 3-2, Virginia 5-4, and Maryland 4-3. A slow start was the reason for the losses, but if in 1958 the Deacons can continue as they finished the 1957 year, there is little doubt as to whom the ACC title will go this year.

The 1957 tennis team had a fairly successful season. In early season play, they defeated Pfeiffer College twice, Guilford College, and North Carolina State College, while losing to East Carolina, Clemson, Maryland, South Carolina, and the University of Cincinnati.

The number one slot for Wake Forest was filled by Joe Burt, while Will Allred occupied the number two position. Others ably supporting these two were George Cox, Walter Conner, Bob Moore, Bob Garren, and Charles McCall. There is great hope among the returning net men that the 1958 season will be even more successful than last year.

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

The purpose of Intramural Athletics at Wake Forest College is to promote recreation, sportsmanship, and competition among teams of the campus. The Intramural Athletic Council has had during the past year a very varied field of sports events. The idea behind having such a varied program was not for students to participate in every event, but so that all the students would have a chance to choose a few events in which he might take part. In this way every student on Wake Forest College campus has an opportunity to enter many of the events. In setting up the program the Intramural Atheltic Council has tried to follow the seasons as closely as possible beginning in the fall with touch football and ending in the spring with track and field, softball, and tennis. Among some of the sports that are available to the students are: table tennis, water polo, swimming, wrestling, shuefilboard, golf, horseshoe, and rifle marksmanship. These and others makes the Intramural Athletic program at Wake Forest College very successful.

WOMEN'S INTRAMERALS

Cries of "side out" or "point seored" echoed and re-schoed through the women's gym as girls from both dorms participated in volley-ball, one big phase of the intramural activity program planned for them during the past year. Dorms, societies, and independent teams yield for top honors in field hockey, basketball, softball, and other team sports. I veitement ran high when, for the first time, coeds chosen from the various intramural teams played Salem College in field hockey and in volleyball taking away wins in both.

For those who excelled in individual sports there were tournaments in tennis, golf, badminton, archery, and swimming. Winners in each field received one of the covered trophies for high arbletic achievements.

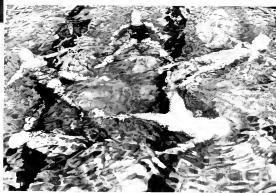

Several girls who gained the required number of points through participation in both team and individual sports earned their white tacket, key, or the much sought after W. L. blanket.

Through a complete program of Women's Intramurals under the direction of Viss Dorothy Casey, Wake Torest coeds proved that the Sports World is not curriely a Man's World.

our elected leaders

The excitement of election time, the enthusiasm of party caucus meetings, and the hustle and bustle of campaigns . . . these are the things which captivate everyone's attention in the spring of each year on the Wake Forest College campus. Behind the blarc of posters and the speaker systems much serious thought on hehalf of nominees and voters takes place because the student government leaders for the following year must be worthy of the confidence placed in them. This year the rule of the majority sent highly capable leaders into office and to work before the voting day debris had been cleared away. Larry Williams, serving as president for the year, did an excellent job in leading the student body through a progressive year. Williams worked closely with Harvey Durham, Reta Peoples, Joan Owen, and George Braswell in trying to co-ordinate the activities of their groups into a unity of purpose,

The Student Legislature's decisions affect every student on campus. This year George Braswell presided over this legislative body, which made several innovations in student government. The creation of an Executive Cabinet including the student body officers and the chiarmen of the nine standing committees made for greater unity of effort. Money appropriations from the legislature went towards the establishment of on-campus movies and the publishing of a semester calendar listing all student activities. In co-operation with the Men's and Women's Conduct Councils, the legislature discussed, and often found solutions to, the various problems confronting the school from within and from without

This was a difficult year for the students. We objected and rebelled, but the voice of student government spoke officially for us, voicing our complaints better than we could. Our elected officials worked long and hard for the good of all; although sometimes perturbed by the pressures of class work and politics, they willingly tackled the tasks at hand. Looking back with them, we can truly say it has been a good veget.

The Wake Forest custom of compulsory chapel services was one of the traditions brought along from the old campus; and the student gripe about required chapel came along too. Since not too much could be done to break either of these well-grounded practices, Chapel Speaker Jerry Pierce and Chapel Chairman Mary Britt trudged along trying to make the situation at ten o'clock on Tuesdays as bearable as possible. Before their eager wide-awake audience at least let's presume those faces hidden behind newspapers were eager- the Chapel Committee selected such talent as Elaine Herndon, Miss North Carolina of 1957, The Thrillers Quartet, Miss America (You don't remember? Must have cut that day.), the Shenandoah Conservatory Choir, and many others, not to mention speakers like Carl Goerch and Dr. Samuel Stumf. In spite of such distractions as a mass exit and impromptu jazz session, chapel procedure continued as normal. In addition to the "traditional advantages of chapel," one might ask, "Where else can you get a whole hour to cram before a fourth period quiz2"

More money, more space, more equipment, more time and more sympathy are the age-old requests which sound from Pub Row, and although the requests are never actually fulfilled and are a dreamer's wishes, the "brain trusts" of the magazine, newspaper, radio, and annual staffs met to attempt solutions for these problems. The board functions to set policies which will assure students of the best possible publications and to assure staff members of the best possible working conditions. In the spring members passed upon the candidates who would soon attempt to "fill their shoes."

Faintly dawn peered from behind the power plant. Our lone light shone from a third story window of Reynolda Hall. A figure hovered over a typewriter. After crumpling many sheets of paper and tossing them on the floor, he finally dropped one on a desk marked "editor" and trudged our in time to meet his eight o'clock class.

This may sound like an exaggerated story, but one rarely realizes how much time and effort were spent hunting ideas for feature stories, getting facts for news copy, selling ads, taking pictures, and meeting dead-lines in order that the Old Gold and Black would be around for the students every Monday morning.

Attracting special attention in the '57-'58 editions were Bill Connelly's editorials, Highes' controversial "Views," and Ingle's column on current national and international affairs.

Seven big issues marked the year for The Student. After last year's transition period, the atmosphere congealed into one of efficient confusion. The same old headaches and many new ideas basked in the glory of an All-American rating. Burning the midnight oil didn't seem half so bad while working to the tunes of Sinatra and Beethoven—strictly hi-fi, no less. Old-timers and visitors still recognized the cider jug behind the door, the modified Georgian hat rack, and the only couch on the Row.

We took our stab at interpreting events on campus through the penned reflections of our sage in his series of "Pilgrymages." Contests through the year brought new writers and artists who joined the staff and found a common ground in good conversation and bad coffee. So went life with Pub Row's seventy-six-year-old granddaddy.

The rest of us went our merry way until suddenly one day the red deadline could no longer be avoided—it seemed to reach out from the calendar and grab us by the collar. Organized when the College was founded in 1834, the literary societies are among the more distinguished student organizations. Each of the societies strives to train its members in all phases of public speaking and to stimulate their interest in music and literature. This year through such student-planned and conducted programs as a parody on classic debating and a study of Verdi's opera "Rigoletto," the Philomathesian Literary Society sought to achieve this aim. And, of course, its members had the opportunity to display their speaking skills in the semi-annual speaking contests hetween the Phi's and the Eu's.

"Neither high church nor low church, but definitely active church," this was the by-word of the Canterbury Club. To begift the activities members were honored by a banquet at the Forsyth Country Club. Among the programs featured at weekly supper meetings were talks on religious drama and church architecture. Members took part in services at St. Paul's as well as attending special Communions which were open to all students and held in Davis Chapel.

Sundays Wednesdays the Methodist students on campus piled into cars and headed for the Wesley Foundation Center located at Maple Springs Methodist Church on Reynolda Road. Under the guidance of Rev. Bob Younts Director, Wesleyans participated in interesting and varied programs featuring speakers, discussions, and fellowship. Students found the Wesley lounge a wonderful place to study and relax all through the week. Vembers also played host to the District II Conference of the M.S.M.

What "cheer" there was around Wake Forest was chiefly instigated by the noise, music and merry makers. They helped to maintain enthusiastic support for the teams as well as to keep our eyes off the dismal score-heards.

When the Asian Elu epidemic struck, band and cheerleaders were unable to travel to Maryland, but even with disappointments such as this, their spirits never died!

For the first year the Modern Dance Club functioned as a fully organized group. Members presented a dance program in connection with the installation of officers. Weekly practices were devoted to preparing the pageantry to honor the Magnoha Queen and to gaining skill and experience in choreography.

The Aquatics Club worked to perfect swimming skills in anticipation of the Spring water show which was the climax of the year's efforts. The show consisted of twelve colorful acts based on the months of the year, following which the Miss Maritimer award was presented.

James H. Wilton began his second year as director of the Wake Forest College. Theatre by announcing the '57-38 season for which an imprecedented season ticket emipaign was conducted. Two additional fall semester "firsts" were the Children's Play and the Freshman Drama. Workshops. The spring semester was highlighted by the Annual High School Speech Lestival and the production of an original musical coincidy.

"Parties make the world go round," and Wake Forest too so believes the Inter-Francernity Council. In order to overcome handicaps to social life presented by the early date of Homeconning, the FEC came up with a wonderful new idea. Greek Week, four days of party, party, party, and just what the students had been clamoring for. The season was rounded out with a bang-up Mid-Winters, after which everyone needed to begin resting for spring exams.

We gave Homecoming to the alumni and took. Greek. Week for ourselves. This first Greek Week program sponsored by the LF.C. replaced the Homecoming festivities of previous years for Wake Forest fraternity men and their dates.

The four day interfraternity competition included field events, group sings, dorin decorations, and a beauty contest which captured the Miss Greek Week title for coed Linda Kinlaw. After all points were totaled, the Delta Signia Phi's had outperformed the others and walked away with the brand new Greek Week trophy.

Richard Malrby's music added glamour to the Saturday right tux and tie affair at the Cohseum. The strains of "Goodinght Sweetheart" marked the end of a perfect week end for tired Greeks and their goddesses.

"Hey, is that phone for me? Is it a girl?"

Shortly after exams the tables turned and the coeds had the boys anxiously awaiting for an invitation to the Sweetheart Ball. On Valentine Day coeds turned their dates into "Kings for a day," took them dancing to the music of the "Thrillers" in the Robert F. Lee Ballroom, and favored them with a red carnation for the lapel, Sponsors representing the dorms and day students were presented at the ball, and from these a "King of Hearts" was crowned.

Very formal Greeks and their dates dreamly bring Mid-Winters of 1958 to a close

mid-winters

Rustle of taffera and tulle, whisps of perfume mingled with heavily starched shirts in sharp contrast to midnight tuxedos, soft lights and low music this is what the Greeks dreamed of while cramming for exams and standing in registration lines. Once more FEC efforts meant Mid-Winter success. The week end was planned to the inth of perfection including dancing and listening pleasure by Ralph Marterie. After the last note of music, the usual change of frat pins from tux to gown, and a goodnight kiss, all agreed it was a week end to remember.

ending notes

The class portraits for the 1958 Howler were taken by Smith Studio of Raleigh. The remainder of the photography was completed by Irvin Grigg and Andy Harmon to whom we owe a special word of thanks.

Thanks are also in order to Marvin Francis of the Sports Publicity Department, Frank Jones of the Journal-Sentinel staff for assistance with some of the pictures, William Oliver Smith (Major) of Edwards & Broughton for his patience, and Doris Leeper of Southern for an excellent week end in Atlanta.

Winfry Whicker and Bob Hewitt did tremendous jobs with the sports and fraternity sections of the book.

This is the story of a year told in a way in which no other story can be told, by pictures. There has been months of hard work molded into the 1958 Howler, but the reward will be much more than sufficient when we hear the first student open his book, look at a picture and say, "Hey lim! remember this highr when we went..."

The 1958 Howler was born graduation week end. While the seniors of '57 were discarding the accompanying responsibilities of college life, the lights in the Howler office burned late and early while ideas flew, were discarded, and dug up again to be rehashed. Within this book is the pictorial story of Wake Forest '57-'58, a story which, we hope, will grow in value to each student with each passing year.

Our special thanks go to the Copy Editor, Bettie Jane Upchurch, for the many hours she spent making assignments, rounding up copy, writing, and editing. To Mclinda Speas, Captions Editor, Pat Farson, Sally Beard, and Janice Priode go our sincere appreciation for unselfishly giving their time and talents to all phases of production. And to all who played a role in "getting the annual out on time," thanks.

All engraving for the '58 Howler was done by Southern Photo Process Engraving Company of Atlanta. Edwards and Broughton Company of Raleigh printed the book, Body copy is set in 10 on 12 point Janson; captions are in 8 on 10 point Janson italies; heads are in 24 point Baskerville. The two-tone Fox Fur grain cover was manufactured by Kingscraft, Inc., of Kingsport, Tennessee.
